HULL FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Hull Fire Department has been effectively and thoroughly reorganized, and each week the new men are drilling. Red bands will be painted on the poles where the boxes are located—two new fire horns are being installed this week on the Central fire station at Waveland which will cover the whole town; the officers are as follows: Henry J. Stevens, chief; N. Walden Smith, Raymond McDonald, Engineers. Engine No. 1 Co. at Hull Village was organized as follows: Francis B. Mitchell, Captain; Frank P. Richardson, 1st Lieut.; Oslia Kiel, 2nd Lt.; Paul E. Cullinan, driver; John Means, John Waterhouse, Maurice Murphy, Andrew Galiano, Philip Smith, James Dowd, firemen, and there is a large number of volunteers in this section. Therefore there were fewer men appointed than at the other stations. The organization at Engine No. 2, Atlantic Hill, was effected as follows: Frank Templeton, Captain; Charles Trapp, 1st Lieut.; Edwin Hatch, 2nd Lieut.; George B. Collins, driver; D. A. Smith, Ralph Place, John Bergen, Ralph Coleman, Hial Sears, Carmelo Pope, P. G. Butler, James Joyce, William Nelson, Engine No. 3, Waveland, is organized as follows: Bradford Wiston, Captain; Morris Nelson, 1st Lieut.; Kenneth P. S. A. S. A. P. WILL NOT DISBAND.

"The Special Aid Society announces that it considers any report that it is disbanding is German propaganda to discourage patriotism and preparedness. It asks that no attention be paid to the rumor. Official notices will be sent to the branches as usual from the central office."

Pres., Mrs. Wendell Barrett.

BURIED WITH HONORS

On Wednesday, May 8, the funeral of William E. Shaw, chief machinist mate U. S. N. R. F., who died Sunday, May 5, took place. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, Waveland, Rev. Father Walsh officiating. Simple funeral services were held at his home, preceding the church services. He died at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Hospital of pleuro-pneumonia. He was taken ill March 2, on board the U. S. S. Covington while on the voyage to France, but would not consent to entering a hospital over there, wanting to come home to his mother and sister, to whom he was devoted. It was his third trip across. Showing his thoughtfulness of his mother and sister, he sent a comrade money to go ashore and buy gifts for them, among others a bottle of perfume for a birthday present for his mother, which occurred March 4. He was taken ill on March 3.

Seventeen sailors from Camp Burroughs, Bumpkin Island, in charge of Chief Quartermaster A. K. Jensen, were escort at the funeral. Eight men composed the firing squad and eight men were pall bearers. A bugler also assisted and taps were sounded at the grave. The Hull Police Department, in charge of Sgt. Henry Stevens, a personal and life-long friend of Willie, led the escort parade which made a sad, but impressive sight as it wound along the avenue from his home to the church. His casket was draped with the American flag. Miss Noonan of East Weymouth was the organist at the church, and there was a soloist from Boston. It was a large funeral, the people of the town coming in large numbers to honor the first of the town's boys to die in the service of the U. S. A. Representatives of that department of the town government were present.

William was only 26 years of age, and is deeply mourned by every one. All who knew him loved him. He was a graduate of the schools, and had taken a special course in electricity at Tech. He was at the time of his enlistment chief engineer at the electric light plant of Hull. He enlisted in August, 1917, and was assigned to the U. S. S. Covington. He kept a diary day since enlisting. He had 21 men under his supervision, a position of great responsibility which he filled well, according to letters received by his mother from superior officers in the Navy. It was a sad thing that his mother received a letter written to her on Saturday, which she received after she received a telegram announcing his death. In this letter was cheerful news of his life in the hospital, and also asking her about her allotment. His one care seemed to be the welfare of his mother and sister.

William was in Paris on his birthday, Jan. 8, and bought some beautiful books and views of Paris, and made a typewritten description of what he saw, meaning to study up and enjoy them after the war was over, when he could show them to his friends at Nantasket. Among his effects were found some cards, all addressed to friends, which Mrs. Shaw has given. She has a little book of poems which he carried and which he loved to read. They show his kindly spirit, for the little book bears the title "Do It Now" and contain such gems as "Give Them the Flowers Now" and "Always You Written to Mother?" When his sister visited him when he first returned ill, and was placed in the Government hospital at Brooklyn, he said, "Mother, I am not going to die, but if I should I want you to know that I am not afraid. I have made peace with God." Those words are a great comfort to his sorrowing mother, who

HULL VILLAGE P-T. ASS'N

The regular meeting of the Hull Village School Parent-Teacher Ass'n, was held at the School building on Monday afternoon in the kindergarten room which lent itself beautifully to the exercises by the children which were of a patriotic nature and also was a delightful exposition of the work done in the several grades of the school during the year along several lines. Everyone present was enthusiastic as to the entertainment which was well done in every particular. The children who took part enjoying the performance as much as those who looked on. It was concluded by all that it was a fitting close to the year's activity of the Ass'n. The teachers are congratulated on the excellence of the program. Each child in the school was given an ice cream cone.

The business meeting followed, and following the report of the nominating committee the following officers were unanimously elected on one ballot. Pres., Mrs. Lewis N. Gilman, 1st vice president, Mrs. J. E. Worcester, 2nd vice president Mrs. E. J. Sirovich, secretary Mrs. Andrew F. Pope, treasurer Mrs. Frank Kingston. After a graceful speech by the retiring president, Mrs. Bessie McLaughlin, the newly elected president gave a little talk, speaking from the standpoint of the future. Superintendent C. V. Nickerson made a short speech and moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president and other officers. The president appointed the following committees: Program Committee, Rev. Kingston, Mrs. W. G. Sparrow, Miss Bernice Gilman, Mrs. Andrew Galiano, Mrs. F. B. Mitchell, Social Committee, Mrs. Carroll Cleverly, Mrs. Gillespie, Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Bessie McLaughlin, Mrs. C. V. Nickerson.

JAZZ DANCE FOR WAR WORK.

A Jazz Dance will be held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, May 22, 1918. The proceeds will be used to send American cigarettes through the "Peace Foreign Service" to the Hull boys "over there." This being the only way to send anything across now. The boys say American tobacco is scarce, and for this reason the dance should be well attended. Music will be furnished by the Jazz Band. Tickets are for sale at various places in town, and also can be obtained from Priv. P. Manning, Ft. Revere (the famous clog dancer), and Marie Fitzpatrick, Allerton. Tickets 25 cents.

NO OFFENCE INTENDED.

No offence intended for any one in little fun about bucket brigade of women. Just a little bit of fun to liven a whole lot of seriousness. The fire department old, and new were, and are efficient, and personally the editor is glad of the fire protection furnished by Hull both past and present. We hope if it was ever necessary that the women would respond, but we opine it will not be necessary.

AN ATTACK OF GRIP USUALLY LEAVES KIDNEYS IN WEAKENED CONDITION

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leave the system in a rundown condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Regular medium and large size bottles, for sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this

YANKEES ABUSED BY HUN CAPTORS

Treat Prisoners Worse Than Did the Red Savages of Pioneer Days.

INFLECT CRUEL PUNISHMENT

Americans Paraded Half-Starved
About Germany and Cheated of Food Offerings From British Prisoners by Swift Removals.

The Hague.—From irrefutable evidence obtained by the New York Times correspondent, it is impossible to close one's eyes to what is going on in the hospitals and prisoners' camps in Germany. It is a mistake to believe that the treatment of prisoners and wounded in Germany has improved. On the contrary, it is as bad as it ever was, and even worse.

The punishments inflicted are cruel and inhuman. As is well known, prisoners are absolutely dependent upon parcels for food and clothing. A forfeiture of parcels is to withhold the food from a whole camp or from large bodies of prisoners. It has been established beyond doubt that prisoners are employed behind the front and are under shellfire, in defiance of The Hague agreement of 1917.

Some prisoners never reach a camp in Germany for six months, meanwhile receiving no parcels of food. The condition on arrival at camp, broken down and starving, is pitiable.

Hawked About Country.

The evidence doesn't tend to show that American prisoners are receiving any preferential treatment. It is reported that the first American prisoners taken were hawked about the country, presumably to show them off to the population. At Glessen, where, it would seem, American prisoners were kept on two separate occasions, they were prehibited any intercourse, even by sign language, with other prisoners who were not allowed to receive parcels or gifts from them.

British prisoners at Glessen asked if they could give parcels to Americans and finally received permission to do so the following day. But the next day the American prisoners were moved away early in the morning.
British prisoners were able to detect Americans who had been captured any length of time by their appearance and by the state of their clothes.
Until parcels for them arrived from Berne their state was deplorable.

A British noncommissioned officer recently obtained the signatures of the first ten Americans captured and

BIG BEAR WORRIES FARMERS

Steals Stock and Poultry in Maryland Community but Cannot Be Captured.

Fredersburg, Md.—Much excitement prevails in Puckum, a farming community between here and Seaford, about the appearance there of a big bear which has been terrorizing the farmers.

All efforts to capture the intruder or to get close enough to see what species he is have proven futile. Farmers who have been missing young cattle and fowls think they have fallen prey to the bear.

It has been seen by persons driving along the roads, and on several occasions the farmers have armed themselves and gone in search of it, but the bear eludes them by hiding in a swamp. Traps which have been set in the swamp have failed to capture it.

Professional Nail Eater and Circus
Performer Falls to Pass Med-

Boston.—Just because one can eat tacks and cut glass without having indigestion is no sign that he would make a good soldier. That is what Albert Logan of Somerville, was told today when he applied for enlistment at the British-Canadian recruiting station.

Logan filled out an application blank and gave his occupation as "professional nail eater and circus performer." The clerk looked up. "Don't believe it," inquired Logan. "Give me your pen."

It was the only one the clerk had,
so he couldn't spare it for the test.
However, Logan could not pass the physical examination. It was found that his peculiar diet necessitated operations at the close of the circus session, and surgeons said he could not stand the strain of long marches.

Logan was disappointed. "And I thought I was going to have a chance to bite the Kaiser's mailed fist," he said as he walked out.

talked with them. These men signed the scrap of paper in the hope that some news of them would reach the physical health and somewhat dependent.

Some of the Evidence.

A few recent examples from a large amount of sworn evidence follows:
In February, 1918, 4,000 men were sent from a Westphalian camp to within thirty kilometers behind the front.
Their guards ran away to escape the British shrapnel fire.

Clock Shells in Long-Range Bom-

Sporting Instinct of Uncle Sam's Sol-keeper to Guns of Hun.

New York.—"American soldiers in Paris clocked the shells from the 72-mile gun when the Germans began bombarding the French capital," was the report by Albert Ogden of Columbia college, New York, one of the Y.
M. C. A. secretaries arriving at the New York headquarters of the national war works council of the organization, after having experienced three days of the sensational "express gun" shelling. The question has been asked:
"How did the Americans act when the long-distance shells hit Paris?"

"The Americans did not take to cover when the 'Alert' was sounded, but went out into the streets, consulted their watches and 'clocked' the intervals, between the shots by the long-range gun," said this "Y" man. "One of the shells hit the building in the Grand boulevard, a block from the 'Y' pavilion, one of the three hotels now conduct in Paris. Our men held their watches on the shots and figured out that they arrived once every 15 minutes, practically on the quarter hour by the clock."

New York.—Home gardeners last year were prompted by only one patriotic impulse, to help increase our food supply. This year there is a second reason, the need to do all that we can to avoid further congestion of freight shipments. On account of their bulk in shipment, potatoes are therefore one of the most important of the vegetables for home growing and because of this the work of the Woodcraft Potato Clubs, founded last year by Ernest Thompson Seton, is meeting a hearty response. These clubs of boys and girls "potatolists" as
Mr. Seton has dubbed them, flourished

POET REJECTED AS SOLDIER

Gibbs of Nowhere Fails to Sing His Way Into Camp of United States Marines.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A tidal wave of poetic verse threatened to swamp the recruiting office of the United States marine corps here recently when Burt Gibbs of nowhere in particular entered the office and burst out:
"My country calls, I wish to fight.
"Pray tell me, am I in right?"

His auditors were staggered and one braver than the rest led the poet to Gibbs, still chattering, to the officer in charge. Gibbs effected a lordly bow and swept his hat to the floor:
"I've come to fight to clean the sea,
To make it safe for democracy."
This was followed with:
"Prithce, kind sir, I'm known to fame,
"Think and reflect—Gibbs is my name."

But Gibbs may gain poetical but never military fame. He was rejected as physically unfit.

headquarters are at 13 West Twenty-Ninth street, New York. A special class for older members who wish to raise a larger crop offers to each member ruling one bushel or more a special certificate for rendering patriotic service and a gold medal will be awarded for the largest crop. It is suggested that members contribute the proceeds of their crops to some war fund, but this is not required.

The competitions and prizes are open to those who may already be working in a home conservation or garden club. In most states, potatoes planted during the first half of May do as well as those planted earlier; but, whether or not you have already planted your potatoes, it is not too late to enroll in Mr. Seton's organization of "potatolists."

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES

IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"?
Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out" unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately.
The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain.

Don't ignore the "little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor.
After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—
would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around
and in the morning
would be all tired
out. I read about
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
and thought
I would try it. My nervousness soon
left me. I sleep
well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZ, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I can not sleep," or "It seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultz's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, diseases, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

Small Boy at Least Showed That He Was Possessed of the Quality of Resourcefulness.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska remarked at a social gathering that when one was doing his best it was all that could be expected of him, and contributed the following story as an illustration:

One afternoon little Jimmy was invited to take tea with a chum, and when he returned home he found his mother anxiously waiting for him.

"I hope, Jimmy," said the mother, after listening to sundry details of the affair, "that you remembered to wash your hands before you went to the table."

"We were called in so quickly," answered Jimmy, "that I didn't have time to wash but one."

"Wash but one?" exclaimed his mother, with much concern. "What did you do?"

"Why, I ate with that one," was the reassuring reply of Jimmy, "and kept the other in my pocket."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

CURRENT WIT and HUMOR

CATCHING IT.

An Irishman was coming down one of the bridges of the Liverpool landing stage on his way to the Birkenhead boat. Over his shoulders hung a bag containing about a bushel of potatoes, and in his hand he carried a stout stick.

Being under full sail, the momentum acquired in coming down the steep slope carried him nearly across the landing stage, when, seeing a boat about ten feet from it, he shook out another reef, made an astonishing spurt, and jumped.

Just as he reached the deck the potato bag shifted heavily to port and laid out a clerk, who was smoking a cigar through a meerschaum holder, while the stick hit a rotund merchant in the waistband, shutting him up like a knife, and Pat himself assumed an involuntary devotional attitude.

He was the first to recover his per-pendicularity, and, as he replaced the bag in its normal position, he complacently remarked:

"Be me sowl, that was a powerful jump; but I got the boat, bedad."

"Got the boat," shrieked the clerk, spitting out pieces of amber. "Why, you confounded idiot, this boat is coming in."

And so she was.

STILL AT IT.

Hubby—A fellow named Jones called nary name like Jones.

Advice.

Learn to say "No"—and then
You won't in the cold gray morning
Be saying: "Never again!"

Placing the Blame.
Bill—I see your friend has got a chauffeur now.
Gill—Yes, he has.
"But I thought he liked to drive his own car?"

"Well, he did, but he has had so much trouble with the thing that he just thought he'd like to have somebody to blame it on."

The Difference.
She—There's no doubt but that marriage improves a man's politeness.
He—How so?

She—You frequently get up and offer me a chair now. Before we were married you never gave me more than half of it.

Explained.

Another One to Try.

about the recent action of the Prussian diet.

Mrs. Heavyweights—Tell me about it.
Does it reduce you without starving you to death?

Its Definition.
Young Bride—I wonder why they call a wife's allowance pin money?
Old Matron—Because the average husband thinks money enough to buy pins to hold her old clothes together is all a wife needs.

THINKING MORE ABOUT DEATH

War's Effect on the Minds of Englishmen Is Declared to Have Been Extraordinary.

In England the effect of religious thought of three years and a half of war has been extraordinary. The revival of religious fervor, in many instances the direct result of personal loss by death or fear of impending loss, has reflected itself in English literature.

The most astonishing of all recent conversions is that of H. G. Wells, hard-headed and yet tender-hearted Socialist, who now writes of religion as if it were a discovery of his own.

Another writer who has been led by the war in faith in a life beyond the grave is Sir Oliver Lodge, whose book, "Raymond," dealing with the communications said to have been received from his son, is one of the phenomena of present-day literature.

The war is making the world think intently about death and what comes after and, in consequence, is urging them to establish a closer relation during life with the eternal.—Exchange.

Sounded Like That.

The nurse in a well-to-do family overheard the little son of the house telling his sister how he had hid behind the portiere and spied on big sister and her beau.

"Oh, tell me what they did," cried little sister.

"It was such fun," chuckled the boy.
"The big chump flopped down on his knees and then he said: 'Answer me, Clara. I can stand this expense no longer.'"

It's Poor Economy to Endure a Bad Back

In these days of rising prices, we need every ounce of strength and the ability to do a full day's work every day. The man or woman with weak kidneys is half crippled. Sore, aching kidneys; lame, stiff back, headache, dizzy spells and a dull, tired feeling and urinary disorders are daily sources of distress.
You can't afford to neglect kidney weakness and make it easy for gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease to take you. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today. They have helped thousands.
They should help you.

Personal Reports of Real Cases

A MASSACHUSETTS CASE.
C. A. Flanders, 18 Newhall St., Malden, Mass., says: "The jarring and jolting of the street cars weakened my kidneys. The secretions were terribly painful in passage and I had little control over them. I was so crippled with pain I couldn't dress myself alone and at times could hardly walk. After different medicines I had failed to bring relief I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. They regulated my kidneys, drove out the pains and restored me to good health."

A MAINE CASE.
Mrs. J. H. Bennett, 47 Windsor St., Randolph, Me., says: "My kidneys bothered me more or less all my life and finally I had an attack of kidney trouble that confined me to bed for months.
My back felt as though it were broken and every part of my body ached. I had intense pains in my kidneys and inflammation of the bladder. My body swelled and I could hardly see on account of headache and dizzy spells.
Doctors did me no good and I was gradually growing worse.
Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and after using them I gained in weight, strength and health and was able to do my housework again. I have taken Doan's occasionally since and they have kept my kidneys in good shape."

It is said that the closing meeting of the Social Centre at the Damon School was one of the best of the series of meetings held this year. An excellent report of the year's work was read by the director, Mrs. John E. Campbell.

Chairman, Mr. Henry Burr spoke for the school committee, and expressed satisfaction at the manner in which the work was conducted and the results obtained.

Mr. Joseph Mooney of Jamaica Plain, who is a sister of Dr. James Grimes, a well known summer resident of Hull Hill, who came to speak on Liberty Loan, being an enthusiast on the matter of Social Centre work, spoke in appreciation of what had been accomplished at Nantasket. She also made a strong appeal in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan.

Mrs. Day Adams of Hingham presided at the piano. Her small son recited "The Little Hingham Boy" and a beautiful recital is due the young people of the Social Centre and Mr. Harvey, principal of the school, for the fine singing of patriotic songs. The song service ended with the singing of the Little Hingham Boy, recited by the Little Miss Donahue, carrying an American flag and two little Hingham boys dressed as sailor and soldier marched in, stood at salute. Mrs. Campbell had an inspiration, and taking the large silk flag presented to the school by the W. R. C. from its socket waved it over the heads of the children as the song proceeded. It was a pretty tableau and made a very fitting close to a meeting which was patriotic.

Due to a slight misunderstanding as to who was to send in the report of the Social Centre meetings the report was not obtained sooner.

Henry is a good smart boy and very courteous and obliging. Mr. Chandler of the Garage is an expert, and Mrs. Sirovich was glad to make his acquaintance, having often heard her husband, the late Captain Louis G. Sirovich, speak of him in terms of praise.

We are glad to state that Mr. Chandler has almost recovered from the recent accident, when the gas tank used in welding exploded, burning him badly.

Attention is called to a letter from "Jack" Flavell, printed elsewhere in this paper, and we would add any having letters from our boys will please send them in for publication.

Send such letters to Marshfield Gazette, 65 Austin street, Cambridge. Please copy letters, writing only on one side of the paper. Copies are requested because original letters are too precious to be lost, which might be the case in going through a printing office.

Two Things Worth Having.

Growing plants are healthful in two ways. First, they absorb carbon dioxide given off by the lungs of persons in the house, and give off pure oxygen to the air. Second, the evaporation of moisture from the foliage and from the porous flower pots is one of the best ways to prevent the harmful drying out of air artificially warmed. You can't have too many plants or too many children in the house.

Treatment for Ferns.

Spray the fern once a week with a solution of tobacco extract, using one of the commercial extracts, one fluid ounce to a gallon of water. If the plant is badly infected, cut off the fronds and burn them.

FOOD CONTROL MEANS VICTORY

European Shortage Places Problem Before American Government—Farsighted Policy Adopted.

NEED 75,000,000 BU. WHEAT.

Food Administration Asks Aid of Every American in Gigantic Task of Feeding Millions.

It is the food problem over there that makes a food problem over here. If we wished to be supremely selfish—and supremely shortsighted—we could go on eating as much as we like and whatever we like, without much difficulty or interruption—at least, until the Germans came!

But we are not doing things in this selfish and suicidal way. We are trying to make a great common pool of all our food, and all of the food we can get from South American and other neutrals, and dividing it up fairly among America, England, France, Belgium and Italy.

This does not mean that all of the people in the great pool are going to have the same ration, but means that we are trying to arrange to have enough for everybody, so that the soldiers—our soldiers and their soldiers—will be well fed, as they have to be to fight hard and continuously, and that the munitions workers and the workers in all the other necessary industries, and the men and women at home will all have enough to keep alive and well. It is absolutely necessary to do this if the war is to be won, and we are going to do it, but it means planning, working, arranging co-operating, being careful, not wasting, saving.

And it means that each and every one of us has got to help.

Now, we have enough and more than enough food for ourselves, and the Government is going to see to it that we keep here at home a sufficient supply of every essential kind of food to support our people. But over there they simply have not enough. Lord Rhonda, the English food controller, recently called the American food administrator, that unless we can send the allies before the next winter harvest 75,000,000 bushels of wheat in addition to what had been sent up to January 1 of this year he could not assure the people of the allies that they would have a sufficient supply of food to carry on the war.

He did not say anything in this cable about the other food necessary, but he has told of these needs in other cables—and by his actions in England. For example, his latest regulation compels a reduction of meat eating in the United Kingdom to a maximum of one pound per week per person, this pound including the bone and other waste parts in the meat as bought in the shop.

The allies must have more wheat, more meat, more fats, more dairy products, more sugar. Their harvests were very short—France had less than half her normal crop of wheat—and the available shipping is small in amount and constantly being lessened by submarines, so that it is now practically impossible to use any ships for the long voyage necessary to bring food from Australia and other remote markets. The food must come chiefly from America. In specific figures it is necessary for us to send to the allies 1,000,000 tons of foodstuffs a month. This is a great responsibility and a great problem. The food must be found, and also the ships to carry it. It is being done, but can only continue to be done by the help and full co-operation of all of us over our broad land. We must produce and save more.

To supply the wheat necessary until the next harvest, we must reduce our consumption by from one-fourth to one-third; we must cut down our usual average consumption of meats and fats by from 10 to 15 per cent. and dairy products by about 10 per cent. Over there they are tightening their belts and doing everything they can. They are eating war bread; they are cutting down their sugar in England to two pounds per person per month, and in France and Italy to one pound—how much are you eating?—and they are using ration cards for most of the staples. We must meet sacrifice with sacrifice. If we don't, we are helping to lose the war instead of helping to win it.

HINGHAM HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lovejoy are building an addition to their summer home on Main street.

The property on Lafayette avenue owned by Stetson Foster has recently been purchased by R. Barba, the fruit man.

The death of Harold Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett, occurred at the home of his parents at Hingham Centre, Sunday last; the services were conducted at St. Paul's Church Wednesday morning at 9:30 A. M. with High Mass, Father McCall officiating. The funeral was a military funeral and many of his comrades from Bunkin Island, where he had been stationed since his enlistment, were present.

Harold Barrett was born in Hingham schools, and was loved by all who had the privilege of knowing him. His family have the sympathy of the entire community at the loss of this dear boy.

Mrs. Nat. Emmons of Main street is doing a wonderful Red Cross work at her home, and she should receive much praise.

The Girls' Friendly Society went in a body Monday last to their annual tea, held in Mechanics Building, Boston, and then marched to Trinity Church to the annual service.

Mrs. O. J. Bott of Hingham Centre is visiting her cousin, Mrs. George Murray of South Weymouth.

is bravely bearing as a patriotic woman, the loss of her only son, to whom she looked forward as a soldier for her declining years. The many beautiful letters of sympathy which Mrs. Shaw has received are also a great comfort in this hour of deepest affliction.

Letters of sympathy have been received from U. S. Naval Hospital, Sisters at Notre Dame Academy and from Rev. John Churchward of Natick, William's boyhood friend; and from a host of other friends. There was a profusion of flowers from Selectman and Mrs. James Jeffrey, Chief and Mrs. Frank Reynolds, Sgt. and Mrs. Henry J. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Guay, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pease, Mr. and Mrs. David Puddy, Mr. W. H. McCarthy, Old Colony Lodge, Guild of St. Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. John Sweeney, Mr. Mark Cronin, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Baker, the Misses Gertrude Ahearn and Thelma Cleverly, Mr. George Lambert, Mr. Joseph Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert C. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shaw, Mr. Will Shaw, Mr. James Bertram and family and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Morton, Mrs. Shaw a pillow talker, and Mrs. S. H. Baker, (Mrs. Shaw's brother) and Miss Mary O'Reilly. There were many beautiful pieces not marked. Miss Agnes V. McArdle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shields, Mrs. Walter Rathbun sent spiritual bouquets, which means that these people had a mass said for the repose of the soul of the departed friend, a beautiful idea. "Greater love hath no man than to lay down his life for his country" and while we mourn his loss we are all proud to think that he was doing his duty. He was a hero.

THESPIAN TOPICS

"THE MAN WHO CAME BACK"

20th Week of this Famous Drama in Boston, at the Plymouth Theatre.

At the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, "The Man Who Came Back" Jules Eckert Goodman's graphic story of a youth's regeneration, is now in its twentieth week. By having reached this record number of performances, this popular drama has now surpassed the long run achieved by George Arliss in "Disraeli" at the same theatre, and is well on its way towards reaching the phenomenal run of "Under Cover."

The story of "The Man Who Came Back" has to do with Henry Potter, son of a wealthy and heretofore indulgent parent because his vices and dissipation have brought the family name into disrepute. The doors of the Potter home in New York being closed to him, the youth goes to San Francisco where his continued waywardness and follies pull down still further into the atmosphere of degradation and he is going to the bad as fast as it is humanly possible. Here he meets and falls in love with Marcelle, a young Cabaret singer in one of the popular beach resorts. She brings to bear on him all of her womanly fascinations, but fails to influence him one way or the other. Finally, in her devotion, she even follows him to Shanghai, where the elder Potter has had him forcibly taken in a last desperate effort to save him from the gutter. There—in one of the most powerful scenes staged in recent years, surrounded by human wreckage and the world's riff-raff, their ghastly reunion takes place in an opium den. Potter finds to his horror that Marcelle has become a dope fiend. It is this realization of her depravity, seeping into his deadened senses, that works a miracle. For in this world, oriental setting, they come to a point that marks the beginning of their ascent to better things on the ruins of their former lives.

Added impetus has been given the engagement by the presence in the name part of Arthur Ashley, the well-known movie star, whose screen popularity has followed him in the theatre. Laura Walker has registered heavily in the role of Marcelle, while others in the long cast are William Mason, Margaret St. John, Allen Atwell, 88 Charles, Thomas Margene, Louis Frohlich.

CASTLE SQUARE

A diversified program of music and motion pictures will be given at the Castle Square Theatre during the coming week. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the always favorite Douglas Fairbanks, will appear in one of the latest of his photo-plays, a comedy of hilarious scenes and ingenious plot entitled "Mr. Fix It." A dramatic tinge will be given to the entertainment with the appearance of Irene Castle in "The Hillcrest Mystery."

The entire week will find the Castle Square Symphony Orchestra playing at every performance both afternoon and evening, and for the last half of the week will be shown two striking pictures, with celebrated stars of the screen in the leading roles. One of them will be Mae Marsh in "The Face in the Dark," and the other H. B. Walthall in "The Hoops of Steel." There will also be a Tete comedy called "One Night Stand."

CATCH THE IDEA?

New Successes in Suits and Topcoats

Of course we all aspire to looking straight and slim—and smart, like the ladies in the fashion pictures—and the best way to go about achieving our ambitions is to study those pictures, and ourselves, with care and the aid of a comprehensive mirror. We may accomplish slimmness and we may not, but we can be sure of straightness and smartness, and these ought to satisfy anybody. Above all things we long to look smart in street clothes, for smartness is their flavor—without it they are flat failures.

Keen designers who have our aspirations and difficulties in mind, bring to us such examples of their genius as the new suit, with its straight, one-piece back in a very short coat, that is shown here. Or, if a one-piece frock and a top coat is our heart's desire, they present such irreproachable top-coats as that shown beside the suit. There is nothing startlingly novel about them, but there are several interesting details in their construction. No one needs to be told that they are smart looking and distinctly in the mode.

The top coat of velours is at its best in quiet, rich colors. It has a plain body with eight pin tucks across the back, in place of a belt and a skirt a trifle longer than the regulation, gathered on to the body at the normal waistline. It has moderately large patch pockets and the designer happened to think to set the two large buttons that adorn them, at the bottom instead of the top. This, with the panel in the back that lengthens the figure, are the clever touches that make one turn round to look twice at a noteworthy coat. It is finished with a wide shawl collar.

The suit begins with an approved plain skirt and ends with a short, straight-hanging coat lengthened into points at the hips. This is one interpretation of the new cape back clearly emphasized by long ornaments depending from the points. A wide girdle is simulated by the shaped piece of cloth, bound with silk braid, that follows the line of the curve at the bottom of the coat. It is caught up at the middle of the back with a buckle and three small buttons. A wide shawl collar, overlaid with a removable collar of white, georgette crepe, finishes the coat. Tricoline, or any other of the softer serviceable suitings will develop well in this model.

A Glimpse of Fine Millinery

In this group of three hats there are three classes represented by fine examples of their kind. There is a graceful, soft model for street wear, in white and black; a dressy, picturesque affair in transparent black, and a bit of subdued gayety in a high pink, bonnetlike shape made of crepe georgette. This is reserved millinery following in the wake of the modes at a modest distance from extremes. But each hat is a gem that will bear comparison with any others of its kind and interesting because of its individual style.

In street hats there are not so many soft models, fashion having swung toward the trim, sprightly, spirited styles. But there is so much class in this bit of headwear that it can afford to be different from the majority. It is of white yedda braid faced with black satin and has a collar of narrow, black satin ribbon, finished with a small bow at the back. Under the bow the soft crown is tacked to the brim and at the front a pair of small, black wings are convincingly chic. The hat speaks French and if it were not for the war we would be sure to credit Paris with it.

The pretty black hat, with braid crown and brim of machine, is a type that every woman admires and all women, young or otherwise, can wear. It has a tie of narrow satin ribbon about the base of the crown finished with a little cravat bow at the front. Large, black velvet dollops are flattened out about the top of the crown and the point of each petal caught to the hat with a jet bead. Every summer brings its transparent black hats, the coolest looking and most becoming of summer's millinery gifts to women.

The remaining hat is of light, orchid-pink crepe georgette with a brim that suggests the poke bonnet, split at the back and laced with silk braid. It has a collar of wide, pink satin ribbon ornamented with sunbursts of needlework in which embroidered silk and silver tinsel thread are used.

Julie Bottomley

Straight and Draped Skirt.

There is a strong struggle going on between the straight and the draped skirt. Both are lending fashions and neither one is new, but the ultra-smart woman insists that the draped skirt is better than the straight one, and she is upheld by many of the dressmakers. On the other hand, there are hundreds of women who say that the draped skirt has been so featured in cheap materials in low-priced gowns that it is exceedingly commonplace. The struggle makes skirts interesting and incidentally adds to the confusion of the season, which has turned out to be an arena into which hundreds of fashions have been indiscriminately thrown.

What a Uniform Will Do

By KITTY PARSONS

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"But I don't want to be engaged to anyone, Russell. It's ever so much nicer to be good friends and play around together. If we were married you wouldn't be half so nice to me, I'm sure. And you wouldn't let me go around with other men or anything else, either!"

"You bet I wouldn't."
"Well, I like to see other men—it keeps you from growing bored with me, too. Don't let's talk about marriage any more—I don't want to think about it."

"Then I guess you don't care anything about me anyway. I've been proposing to you steadily for over a year, and if you did, you would have found it out by this time."

"I'm awfully fond of you, Russ, but I guess I just don't want to get married at all—I have such a nice time being single that I don't want to change. I'm sorry, but I can't help it."

"No, I suppose you can't. I have half a mind to go South on that business trip, instead of sending Smith—I would have gone in the first place if it hadn't been for you."

"Oh, don't go, Russ. There are lots of other engineers who can go way down to that horrid place who aren't needed here at all. I'll miss you a lot."

Mollie Dean showed signs of real
feeling in her voice for the first time,
but Russell did not notice it.

"I'll think it over. I'll have to run along now, too. I'm dining at the club with Ogden. See you tomorrow.
Good-by."

Mollie Dean showed signs of real
feeling in her voice for the first time,
but Russell did not notice it.

But in the end she changed her mind and went. And what was more, she wore her prettiest dress and took the greatest pains with her toilet.

"You never looked so lovely in your life!" exclaimed her younger sister admiringly, when she was dressed.
Even Mollie felt that she was telling the truth, too.

Russell and Ogden came in together and Mollie's eyes nearly jumped out of her head when she saw that Russell was in uniform.

"Doesn't he look well, dear?" said Mrs. Ogden. "We're all so proud of him, too. I only hate to have him go so far away."

At dinner Mollie sat between Ed Ogden and a young naval officer, and she never looked so brilliant. Neither she nor Russell had exchanged more than a casual greeting, but they were both conscious of the other's slightest move. Afterwards, in the drawing room, they asked Mollie to sing, and Russell went to the piano to play her accompaniments.

"Sing this one," he urged, picking up an old love song they had often sung together. Mollie choked when she saw it, but she managed to answer indifferently that she'd rather not, and selected a light frivolous thing that he frankly hated. Then she sang a lullaby at the request of her hostess and ended with a sad little melody that brought tears to the eyes of everyone present —herself included.

It was not an easy evening for Mollie, and she was glad when at last she could excuse herself and go home.

"Russell is going with you," Mrs.
Ogden announced.

"Oh, it isn't at all necessary—the car is here!"

"I know, but he insisted—here he is,
himself."

"I'd really rather you didn't come, Russell—it's only a little way."

"I know, but as long as it's my last night before I go to camp, I thought you might humor me—shall we walk?"

"Yes, I'd prefer it. When did you decide to enlist?"

"The day I saw you last—I'd thought about it for a long time and your refusal settled it for me—I'm glad I did, now."

"Then, you're glad I refused you, too?"

"That remains to be seen."

"You've certainly changed pretty quickly, anyway. I'm glad I refused you, myself. If you've forgotten me so soon. And they say women are fickle."

Mollie gave a sharp unnatural little laugh.

Russell ignored the thrust.

"Here we are," he announced cheerfully. "Are you going to write to me?"

"No, I don't think I shall. And I won't keep you any longer—you will probably have to start early in the morning."

She held out her hand and Russell took it and held it.

"I'll be back some day, Mollie," he told her. "And then I'm going to ask you the same old question again. Will you give me your final answer, then?"

"Are you sure you want it?"

"Well, I suppose it will be just as hopeless as ever, but I'm willing to try.

What do you think about it?"

"I wouldn't wait if I were you."

"Is my case as hopeless as all that?"

"That depends on what you call hopeless."

"Well, I should call my case a hopeless one—as far as my chances of marrying you are concerned."

"Why don't you try and find out?"

"Because I hate to go forth to battle defeated at the start."

"Why don't you go forth victoriously?"

"Mollie, I'm in no mood for repartee or anything else. Do you care anything at all about me, or don't you—that's the only thing in the world I want to know."

"I always have, only you never went away long enough for me to find it out.

And when I saw you in your uniform and heard you had enlisted, I knew I cared most awfully and I was too miserable for words."

"And will you marry me when I come back, Mollie, darling?"

"Yes, if I can't do it before you go away."

"Mollie, Mollie—I'm the happiest man in the world. But I'll never be half so wise as Ed Ogden—I take off my hat to him."

"You're a thousand times wiser than Ed, Russ."

"I may be in some way, but not where women are concerned."

But Mollie never knew how very wise Ed really had been.

For Busy Mothers.

That it is good for all of us to be alone once in a while is a truth that is growing fast among sensible women.

More and more are we hearing of the "quiet hour," imposed by busy mothers in homes not only for themselves, but also for their growing boys and girls.

The "quiet hour" means a certain time every day set apart for mother, boy and girl to sit down with book or toy and keep perfectly still.

The mind, temper and body all demand and are better for one hour of quiet through the day. It may be spent in reading or looking out the window or taking a nap. Try it, mothers, who have not done so. Take one hour from your busy day and rest.—Exchange.

Fixing It.

"What are you playing there, Slam-bangski?"

"A sonata I have just composed. I call it Slambangski's Celebrated Sonata."

"How can it be celebrated if it has just been composed?"

"Perhaps it isn't. But it is just as well to give a composition a good name at the start."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Both Ends (Producer and Consumer) Against The Middle (The Packer)

The consumer wants to pay a low price for meat.

The farmer wants to get a high price for cattle.

The packer stands between these conflicting demands, and finds it impossible to completely satisfy both.

The packer has no control over the prices of live stock or meat, and the most that can be expected of him is that he keep the difference between the two as low as possible. He does this successfully by converting animals into meat and distributing the meat at a minimum of expense, and at a profit too small to be noticeable in the farmer's returns for live stock or in the meat bill of the consumer.

Swift & Company's 1917 transactions in Cattle were as follows:

	Average Per Head
Sold Meat to Retailer for . . .	$68.97
Sold By-products for . . .	24.09
Total Receipts . . .	93.06
Paid to Cattle Raiser . . .	84.45
Balance (not paid to Cattle Raiser) . . .	8.61
Paid for labor and expenses at Packing House, Freight on Meat, and Cost of operating Branch distributing houses . . .	7.32
Remaining in Packer's hands as Returns on investment . . .	$ 1.29

The net profit was $1.29 per head, or about one-fourth of a cent per pound of beef.

By what other method can the difference between cattle prices and beef prices be made smaller, and how can the conflicting demands of producer and consumer be better satisfied?

Tree That Wouldn't Die.
One of the giant redwoods in Mendocino county, California, has shown that in spite of its combined foes, the wind and the forest fire, it has made its mind to keep right on living in the same spot where it has stood for dozens of years. During a terrible storm on the mountain the top of this big tree was broken off, and later the trunk was nearly destroyed by a forest fire; yet enough vitality remained for a young tree to rise from the roots of the older one and to grow up within the wide trunk which serves as a protection against the wind. The original tree was a magnificent specimen more than 11 feet in diameter, towering high

The great war has brought home with greatest force and realization to the Cohasset people, or especially the relatives and friends of the two young men when the Globe of Monday afternoon, May 13, had among its list of "Missing in Action," who although not now living in town, have yet lived here in the past, or visited, so we may claim them as our very own boys of Cohasset. One is Corp. Sewall W. Rich, aged 22 years.

Sewall was born in Cohasset, in the house on Elm street, which was his grandfather's, (the late Mr. Zachariah Rich) and father's home before him and lived here until five or six years old, when he moved with his parents to some part of Greater Boston. The C. C. had a snapshot of him, taken when as a little boy he played with her nephew. About three or four years ago he attended a Masonic Masquerade Dance here on Feb. 22, and was seen by the C. C., a handsome youth in all the vigor of young manhood. He has relatives in town, his aunt being Mrs. Joseph Bates of the North End. He is the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Rich of 19 Radford Lane, Ashmont. Was attached to Co. B, 102 Machine Gun Battalion, and was formerly a member of Troop D Massachusetts Cavalry. According to the Globe, he was at the Mexican border, and previous to enlisting was in the automobile business.

The other young man is Corp. Franklin J. Damon, son of Dr. and Mrs. Newcomb Damon, and his home was at 43 St. Stephen street, Boston, Mass. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Snow, Sr., of this town, and had often visited here, having many friends among those of his age here. At one time he attended the Osgood Grammar School. Talking with his aunt, Miss Margaret Snow, on Tuesday morning of this week, she told me that the Co. to which he and Corp. Rich both belonged (Co. B 102 Machine Gun Battalion) have been missing since April 20, and that it is thought they have been taken prisoners. Corp. Damon was serving on his second enlistment, having served out one term already. He was on the Mexican Border the summer of 1916, and before going into the army he was employed by the firm of White, Weld and Co. of Boston, stockbrokers. It is our earnest hope and prayer that these promising young men may be restored to their battalion and eventually to their fond parents, relatives and friends.

The name of Private Frank Sutcliffe of Fair Haven appeared also on the list of Missing in Action in the Monday, May 13 Globe, but it is not definitely known whether it is Mr. Frank Lucas Sutcliffe, formerly of Cohasset, and a member while here of the Cohasset State Guard after its formation or not, as he went to Canada and joined a Canadian regiment.

Miss Eleanor P. Gould now of the Walpole High School, will be teacher of commercial subjects in the Cohasset High School, and Miss Marie A. Gordon of Milton will be assistant in the kindergarten. These teachers were elected at a recent meeting of the school committee. They are also taking under advisement the matter of a new supt. of schools, following the going away of Supt. Stanley Lary, who leaves June 1st for work as physical director among the soldiers in France.

The C. C. took a walk to Wheelwright Park last Sunday afternoon. This park which is acres and acres of woodland given to the town by Josephine and Chas. Wheelwright, is entered by a path which goes through a field a short distance above where the home of Chief Police Thos. Bates is. One must follow closely the cart track if they would find an easy way out; anyway the C. C. did and emerged by some of the barns formerly owned the property of the Wheelwrights, but now belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Delano Wright, who bought the Wheelwright house and estate reserved for it, coming out on the driveway a short distance above the home of Mr. Cyrus Bates on Jerusalem road. A family may go with their luncheon and spend a pleasant day contemplating nature at close range and the kiddies can disturb in riotous glee, without fear of disturbing anyone, for it is a long way from the maddening crowds of our little burg even. A fine place to take our school children on botanical walks.

Altogether a splendid acquisition for the townpeople. But for clear, sheer nature beauty, the woods known as the White Head Woods and those embraced by the "big circle" Elm street, Atlantic avenue, Beach street and Highland avenue, cannot be beaten.

A communication from Mr. Cyrus H. Bates, Conn. Post 4, A. R., states that the coming Memorial Day service will be the best that we have ever had. The entire State Guard will turn out, and the patriotic meeting in the afternoon in the Town Hall will include a chorus of forty voices, speakers, and other exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eastman of Chicago, father and mother of Mr. Wm. Eastman, who lost his life by accident about a year ago, while engaged in work in the Aviation School attached to the M. I. T. of Cambridge, have been guests this week of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Howe. Mr. Howe was the very close friend of their son, attending the Mass. Institute of Technology.

Mr. Harry A. Ball of Bridgewater, an undergraduate at Amherst Agricultural College, is now acting as supervisor of children's gardens, and will also organize the 1917-18 garden and other clubs among the school pupils.

Miss Irene Malley started Monday of this week for Greensboro, North Carolina, accompanied by a chaperone and young lady companion to work for the Library Bureau of Boston, by whom they are employed.

Mr. George Newton is erecting another artistic home in the rear of Newton road. It is said that he will let his villa on Atlantic avenue, and occupy the new house himself.

Mrs. Pennington Gardiner and children spent Sunday at their summer bungalow on the Newton estate.

Two cases of diphtheria are reported at North Cohasset by the Board of Health.

Miss Merle Nichols spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Nichols. Miss Nichols is attending Russell Seminary.

Mr. Minot Browne of Boston spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Browne.

Machinist's Mate 2nd Class Charles Jason is attending Gas School at Coalinga, California. Mr. E. W. Jason was home on furlough until Thursday of this week from Aero Squadron.

The Record and Relief Committee are already taking measures to find out if possible the whereabouts of Franklin J. Damon, reported recently as "Missing in Action" in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keer are away on a trip to Chicago.

The Benevolent Union held their annual meeting at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon electing the following officers: Pres. Benevolent Union, Miss Edith Bates; Vice Pres. Mrs. J. T. Lapham; Pres. King's Daughters, Mrs. Harry Walters; Pres. Missionary

Gen. Pershing

Says:

"No other organization since the world began has ever done such great constructive work with the efficiency, the dispatch, the understanding, often under adverse circumstances, as has been done in France by the American Red Cross in the last six months."

Here are some of the activities in behalf of which the Red Cross is asking for another $100,000,000 from the people of the United States during the week beginning May 20:

- The organization of more base hospitals and ambulance companies;
- The recruiting and training of nursing personnel for service in the army and navy medical corps;
- The increased production of surgical dressings, hospital garments, knitted goods, etc., for our army and navy at home and abroad;
- The care of dependent families of soldiers and sailors, over 100,000 of which are now being helped by the Red Cross;
- The study of the problem of crippled soldiers and sailors;
- Providing canteen service for troops en route;
- Feeding American prisoners in enemy countries;
- Procuring casualty information for the relatives and friends of wounded soldiers;
- Nursing service for convalescents;
- And relief for our Allies, such as canteen service, tubercular work, hospital supplies and various other forms of assistance.

The American National Red Cross is, by Act of Congress, the official medium of communication between the people of the United States and its army and navy.

Will the public kindly wake up and come forward with their magazines.
